Suspect in Stabbing Of Township Woman Held in Lieu of Bail

Gerald Greffard, the 21-year-old Witherspoon Lane resident, who has been charged with stabbing an Oakland Street resident Thursday night while she was taking a shower, is being held in the Mercer County Detention Center in lieu of bail.

Bail was raised to $75,000 Monday from $50,000 at the request of Mercer County Prosecutor Paul T. Koenig Jr., based, he said, on developments during the investigation. Mercer County Superior Court Judge Richard J.S. Barlow, in agreeing to the request, set a ten percent cash provision, however; Greffard could gain his release by posting $7,500 cash bail.

Greffard has been charged with aggravated assault with a weapon and with robbery. He

Alexander Bridge Closing Announced by Township

The Alexander Street Bridge will be closed for eight weeks starting Monday, June 18, reported Township engineer, Robert V. Kiser at Monday's Township Committee meeting.

The bridge was posted with a two-ton weight limit a year ago when routine inspection revealed underwater deterioration in the concrete abutments supporting it.

During the anticipated eight-week closing, the old bridge will be removed and construction of two new abutments, girders and bridge deck will be completed. The new bridge will be built of pre-fabricated welded steel trusses and will have a poured concrete deck. The center pier will be removed, so that, like the Harrison Street bridge, it will be supported from new con-

Blue Skies and Time-Honored Ceremony Mark University's 243rd Commencement

Under sunny skies and amidst an atmosphere of impressive pomp and circumstance, pageantry and tradition, Princeton University held its 243rd Commencement Exercises on Tuesday in front of historic Nassau Hall. One thousand, six hundred, fifty-three degrees, including 571 advanced degrees, were conferred.

Six honorary degrees were also awarded, to recipients whose fields of expertise ranged from chemistry to Russian studies to journalism to music. Robert Charles Tucker, Princeton University I.B.M. Professor in International Studies, Emeritus, was awarded Doctor of Humane Letters and was cited as "a pioneer in the study of political leadership, renowned scholar of Marxism and creator of Russian Studies at Princeton."

"Above all a humanist," the citation continued, "he elaborates for us the Soviet political system in order to widen our understanding of the human condition."

Longtime popular singer Ella Fitzgerald received a Doctor of Music and was honored as "first lady of our music. Her voice, as flexibly virtuosic as an instrument and as warmly human as she, has ranged over six musical decades, across continents, in a repertory that has reached from "A-Tisket, A-Tasket" to Arlen and Porter, garnering honors that extend from Down Beat and Metronome magazines to the National Medal of the Arts," notes the citation.

Washington Post editorial page editor and Newsweek columnist Meg Greenfield was the recipient of a Doctor of Laws. "Her beat is the Capital, from which post she takes the nation's and world's pulse, and with Pulitzer Prize-winning judgment publishes her diagnoses as first woman editor of its (or any) major daily newspaper."

Outlook Uncertain for Princeton Schools In Wake of State Supreme Court Decision

The Princeton Regional School District is waiting to see how Gov. Jim Florio and the State Legislature will respond to the New Jersey Supreme Court's ruling last Tuesday that the State's system of financing education is unconstitutional as applied to the 28 poorest school districts and the 265 richest.

The Court's Abbott vs. Burke decision struck down minimum State aid to wealthy districts, including Princeton. It opened the way for that money — $148.4 million in the 1989-90 school year — to be cut off.

On Monday, the day before the landmark decision came down, School Board Legislative Affairs Committee Chair Corinne Kyle testified before the State Legislature's Joint Education Committee on the school aid plan presented by Gov. Florio. This would cut off, over a four-year period, about half the approximately $1.6 million in State aid Princeton currently receives.

Ms. Kyle testified in support of this, noting that the District was very pleased to see that the plan did not intend to put a cap on spending for those districts willing to raise additional monies through a higher school tax.

The Governor, however, also appears to want local districts to assume the costs of teachers' pensions and the employer's share of Social Security. "If we are ineligible for State funds, and if we have to carry this load ourselves, we would be in serious trouble," said Ms. Kyle.

"If you subtract the pension and Social Security funds needed to be paid, there would be precious little left to run the District," said School Board President Joel Cooper. "We would have left just enough to pay salaries."

If these costs were carried in last year's budget, points out Ms. Kyle, an additional 20 cents would have had to have been added to the school tax, an increase of 12 percent just to pay pension and Social Security.

Ms. Kyle pointed out that the Abbott vs. Burke decision called for spending in the 28 poorest districts to be substantially equal to the average level of the State's most affluent districts, and directed this to begin in the 1991-92 school year.

The Court decision did not place a cap on the amount wealthy districts can spend. The Court did say, however, that as the wealthier districts increase spending, the State must provide additional aid to the poor districts to prevent the gap from widening.

Since this could end up with the Legislature playing catch-up as it attempts to equalize spending, legislators have begun talking about a cap on spending, explained Ms. Kyle.

A worst-case scenario for Princeton Regional would be an end to State aid, an increased cost of $2 million for pensions and Social Security, and a cap placed on an amount less than is currently being spent by the District, forcing the District to go backwards in spending.

"If this happened, we would have some fairly serious problems to address in how to maintain the level of education we have," said Ms. Kyle.

Ms. Kyle said Princeton would support the best-case scenario — where State aid is cut but the State continues to fund pensions and Social Security and where any cap is placed at 10 to 15 percent above current spending.

"The Legislature is grappling with these issues, and they know the serious burden the pensions would place on school districts," said Ms. Kyle. "The original position is that he didn't intend to lower the level of education of districts doing well."

She added that she hopes the decisions that come down not only help the poor districts but allow Princeton and others to keep doing what they're doing.

Ms. Kyle also pointed out that she testified in support of Gov. Florio's plan to provide a degree of property tax relief for low-income people.

While the Legislature discusses the Supreme Court decision and the Florio plan, Princeton seems to have become a media focus. On Sunday, the Star Ledger quoted the Court decision by noting, "For example, in Princeton there is one computer for every eight students, while 43 students in East Orange share a single computer and in Camden 58 students must share one computer."

This week, U.S. News and World Report sent a reporter to interview Superintendent of Schools Carol Choye. The following day, CNN sent over a television crew.

crete abutments at either end. The bridge will have a 20-ton weight carrying capacity.

Township Mayor Kate Litvack suggested posting signs on Route 1 South — preferably at locations before the Washington Road exit — alerting motorists to the Alexander Street bridge closing.

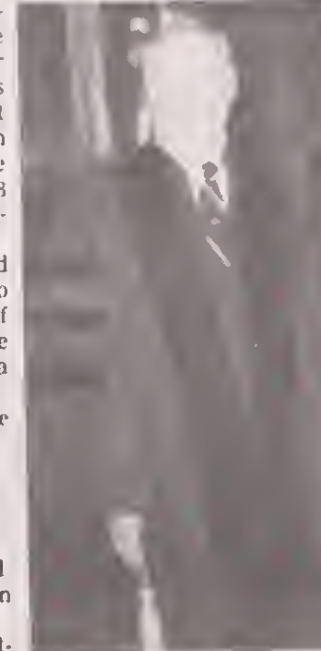

The next hurdle Princeton residents will have to negotiate is the repair of Princeton Pike. The Township expects to award a contract for this August 1, but work will not begin until the Alexander Street bridge is completed. "We would not want to close Princeton Pike when the Alexander Street bridge is out," said Mr. Kiser.

Sailing Trip on Hudson Set by Watershed Ass'n.

The Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association will sponsor a sailing trip on the Hudson River aboard the Clearwater, a 100-foot wooden sloop, Friday, July 29.

With its music and educational programs during its voyages on the Hudson, the Clearwater has been a symbol of the clean water movement in America. Participants on this trip will sail into New York Harbor, getting a good view of Manhattan and the Statue of Liberty. With the crew, they will take part in raising the big sails, singing and hauling lines. They will also seine for fish and other aquatic life, and identify plankton and bottom life.

Bus transportation will be provided to and from the Watershed Headquarters in Pennington. For more information and a registration form send a self-addressed stamped envelope to SBMWA-Sail, RD 2, Box 263A, Titus Mill Road, Pennington 08534, or call 737-7592.

Lawrence Council Votes
For Settlement with ETS

The Lawrence Township Council voted 4 to 1 last week to approve a settlement agreement with Educational Testing Service and to introduce an ordinance that would increase the permitted floor-area ratio (FAR) on the ETS property from .07 to .10.

FAR is the ratio of building square footage to property area. Under the previous land use ordinance, ETS would have been allowed to build 3.8 million square feet of office space. ETS currently has about 549,000 square feet of space. It received approval in 1988 for 447,000 additional square feet. Increasing the FAR to .10 would increase the total amount of building ETS is permitted to 1.6 million square feet.

Under the agreement, ETS has said it would abide by any traffic management ordinance Lawrence Township may adopt. If the Township does not adopt such an ordinance, ETS will submit its own traffic management plan to township officials for approval and will monitor its own compliance with the plan.

ETS has also agreed not to seek a variance for an FAR above .10. The firm will seek an amendment to its 1988 site plan approval from the Planning Board requesting a vesting period of 10 years instead of the seven that were approved. This would give ETS until 1998 to undertake expansion, but the firm has agreed not to occupy any new buildings until 1995.

ETS also agreed to provide a 300-foot buffer within the 300-foot setback that is required under the land development ordinance. It will also provide public access to its Green Acres land along Stony Brook via a 10-foot wide path to the brook from Province Line Road and from Carter Road.

The settlement agreement requires the Lawrence Council to introduce an amendment to the land development ordinance increasing the FAR and allowing ETS to rent office space to tenants who carry out educational or research activities. Earlier efforts to prevent ETS from renting office space were overturned in court. Mercer County Superior Court Judge Paul G. Levy rejected the single-user ordinance that the Lawrence Council adopted in 1988.

ETS will drop the lawsuit when the amendment to the land use ordinance is approved. Such an amendment, and an amendment to the Master Plan also specifying an FAR of .10 for the ETS property, must be approved by the Lawrence Planning Board. The board must also approve extending ETS vested rights to 10 years before the lawsuit is dropped.

The meeting last week was attended by about 75 residents, most of whom were strongly opposed to the settlement agreement. At one point the meeting degenerated into a shouting match between Mayor Richard Hocking and former mayor Gretel Gatterdam over whether or not additional public question and/or comment would be heard. Former mayor Carol Harle cast the single vote against accepting the settlement agreement, on the basis of traffic concerns.

Some of the discussion centered around the cost to the township of continuing litigation. Township attorney Joseph Bocchini told Council he was not confident Lawrence would win its case if the matter were to go to trial. Mr. Bocchini said the settlement would end the drain on township resources and achieves significant concessions from ETS in the matter of traffic management.

Nielsen Lewis, attorney for an organization of residents in the Carter-Rosedale area, asserted that the settlement was more of a "surrender" to ETS and that the Township was getting nothing in return. Donald Doeke, president of an organization of residents on Province Line Road, called attention to the traffic that would be generated by the ETS expansion and the need for intersection improvements to handle the traffic.

One resident of southern Lawrence said that ETS should be allowed to build what it wants to build in order to keep the tax rate down. There was testimony from Carl Hintz, who was the professional planner for Lawrence when the Master Plan and the land use ordinance were drawn up. He said that he initially recommended an FAR of .10 for ETS, but the planning board went for .07 instead.

Mr. Hintz also said that of 13 communities in Mercer County that use a FAR to determine building size, most have ratios of from .10 to .20.

TRENTON ROUNDUP

Heavy Fines for Oil Spills

The State Senate has voted to impose fines of up to $10 million for major oil spills.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Richard Van Wagner, D-Monmouth, would allow the State to levy penalties of up to $10 million for spills involving more than 100,000 gallons. There have been three such spills since January 1, including last week's 260,000 gallons into the Kill van Kull in Bayonne.

Horse Racing on Sunday?

Legislation that would ask voters in November whether horse racing should be allowed on Sunday has been passed by the State Senate. It was sent to the Assembly, where an identical bill is awaiting an Assembly floor vote.

If passed by the Assembly and the voters, New Jersey racetracks would be allowed to conduct horse racing and gambling on Sundays beginning at noon, provided they close one other day of the week.

Further Mortgage Safeguards

A bill designed to strengthen consumers' rights in applying for mortgages has been given final legislative approval by the Senate. It provides for regulation by the State commissioner of banking of the mortgage lending industry's loan application and commitment processes.

The bill now goes to Gov. Jim Florio for consideration.

Proof of Garbage Collection

Under legislation passed by the State Assembly, every home owner and commercial owner would have to individually contract for garbage removal if the municipality does not provide for waste collection.

According to its sponsors, the legislation would help curb improper and illegal garbage disposal.

The measure goes to the Senate for consideration.

OK for Some Speed Bumps

Municipalities would be allowed to install speed bumps on certain residential streets without prior State approval under legislation passed by the State Senate and sent to the Assembly for consideration.

Towns would be allowed to install such bumps on any street containing only residential buildings. Appropriate warning signs would have to be posted.

Credit Card Information

Under a measure passed by the State Assembly, consumers making a credit card transaction would not be required to provide some of the same personal information already provided to the company that issued the card. The bill will be sent to the Senate for consideration.

According to one of its sponsors, Assemblyman John Paul Doyle, D-Ocean, the measure should be enough to close a simple credit card transaction.

Assemblywoman Martene Lynch Ford, D-Ocean, another sponsor, noted that card users who reveal their home addresses and phone number automatically leave themselves open to nuisance solicitation through phone calls and junk mail.

Princeton Planning Board Approves McCarter Plans

Despite the concern of Borough Engineer Carl E. Peters that the plans submitted by McCarter Theatre were not detailed enough, the Planning Board approved the theater's Phase I and Phase II plans. However, construction cannot start until detailed plans are submitted to the engineer and approved by him.

Phase I and Phase II involve the construction of new glassed-in lobby space on either side of the theater, with office space below grade on the east side, and dressing room space below grade on the west side. The dressing rooms in the McCarter tower can not be brought up to fire code, and will be vacated. Construction is expected to begin at the end of June and continue into the coming McCarter season.

McCarter received Planning Board approval for Phases I, II and III in May, 1985. Phase I, renovation of the interior of the theatre adding no new construction, was carried out, but the approval for the other two phases has now expired. That, plus the fact that some changes were made, meant that McCarter had to return to the Board.

Mr. Peters had written the Planning Board in advance of the meeting recommending that approval of the plans not be granted because there were so many unresolved questions regarding the details of the proposed improvements. He and Assistant Engineer Donald W. Mayer-Brown listed their concerns in a three page memorandum which he summarized at the meeting.

One of Mr. Peters' concerns was the impact of construction vehicles on the neighborhood, and particularly on parking. Another was whether the deteriorating sidewalk in front of McCarter would be replaced, and whether curbing would be installed to keep cars from parking on the grass in front of McCarter.

He pointed out that the materials which will be used in the new addition had not been shown on the plans, and that some of the conditions that had

The Princeton Area Council of Community Services seeks area nonprofit organizations, social service groups and local entertainment acts to participate in its second annual Greater Mercer Championship Chili Cook-Off.

The event is scheduled to take place at Mercer County Park on Saturday, September 15, from noon to 6, and the proceeds will benefit the Council, a nonprofit community problem-solving organization serving the greater Princeton area.

In addition to raising funds for the Council and providing great-tasting chili, the purpose of the event is to inform the public of the many community services and resources available in the 13 townships that make up the Princeton area.

The Council would like to highlight area talent at the Cook-Off. Organizations taking part in the event will be given free space at the park and will be promoted in the publicity campaign created for the event. Those interested in participating may call the Council of Community Services at 924-5865 or 799-6033.

been imposed in the original Planning Board approval had not been met. Christopher Tarr, attorney for McCarter, went through the conditions with the Board and said they either had been met or would be met.

James Grieves, the architect, showed a colored rendition detailing the brick that would be used. However, Mr. Grieves asked to defer the color of the roof pending information from the contractor on costs and materials. He said the roof would be metal, and either be dark grey, like the existing slate roof, or copper-colored green. The earlier Planning Board approval had specified dark grey.

Asked by Joseph O'Neill, Planning Board vice chair who was chairing the meeting whether his concerns had been met and whether he could recommend approval, Mr. Peters said he was not satisfied. "I feel the engineering staff is entitled to an approved plan from which we can monitor the construction." He went on to details in regard to pedestrian safety and handicap access which he said "shouldn't be left to decisions in the field."

Mr. Peters also said that the applicant has a responsibility to take care of parking problems during construction, not leave it to the contractor.

Planning Board Attorney Allen D. Porter then fashioned a motion for approval with conditions that would meet Mr. Peters' concerns. Mr. Tarr and the McCarter officials readily agreed. The vote was 8 to 1, with Michael Landau voting against granting the bulk variance requested as part of the overall approval because he was opposed to the scale of the kiosk-shaped addition in front for which the bulk variance was needed.

Township Moves Ahead On Tusculum Property

Township Committee has set the wheels in motion to obtain a $250,000 Green Acres grant from the State of New Jersey for acquisition of a 32-acre portion of Tusculum, the summer estate of John Witherspoon. At its Monday meeting, Committee unanimously approved introduction of a $1,025,000 capital bond ordinance to help finance the acquisition.

"This is just setting the mechanics in motion to get the grant," explained Assistant Township Administrator/Chief Financial Officer Christine Smeltzer. Added Administrator James J. Pascale, "We're just showing good faith that we may acquire the land with $250,000 of the Green Acres grant and $750,000 of our money. It just shows a potential commitment."

The 32-acres in question are largely wetlands next to Mountain Lakes and the John Witherspoon Woods. The Township has included $750,000 in its 1990 capital budget for this acquisition.

After introduction of the bond ordinance and acceptance of the State grant, Committee hopes to initiate an appraisal of the property, possibly within the next two months.

A public hearing on the Ordinance will be held on Monday, June 25, at Committee's regular meeting.

In a work session, Committee heard comments from representatives of Princeton Community Housing regarding the omission of Griggs Farm from the Mercer County recycling program. Griggs Farm is not included in the bi-weekly curbside recycling collection. Robert Gunther-Mohr and Marcy Crimmins explained that in order to participate in the program, Griggs Farm residents have been offered two options by the Mercer County Improvement Authority: (1) Pay the Authority directly for its recycling collection or (2) Enter into a contract with a private collector.

Griggs Farm residents consider this discriminatory in view of the fact that other Princeton residents have the same service at no cost beyond their tax bills.

In discussion, Committee raised the question of the Authority's policy of limiting curbside collection to those dwellings where municipal garbage collection is provided, and also how Griggs Farm's status as multi-family units pertained to the problem. It was pointed out that in situations where dumpsters are used, such as in multi-family units, different types of equipment is needed for the recycling program.

The Princeton Community Housing representatives hoped action could be taken to include Griggs Farm in the recycling program by July 9. Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmierer was authorized to write to Mercer County Improvement Authority officials for clarification of this matter.

Postal Employee Caught In University Sting

A 30-year-old postal employee has been charged with the theft of $67 from a Princeton University dormitory room and with criminal trespass.

The suspect, Brian Lucas of Trenton, employed by the U.S. postal service since 1988, was caught last week in a sting operation set up by Borough police and the University's Department of Public Safety. Lucas is scheduled to appear in Borough court on June 25.

Lucas was apprehended last Tuesday morning, as he left a room in Little Hall on campus. Police found $67 in his pocket — bills that had been photocopied beforehand and placed in a wallet owned by the Department of Public Safety.

"We have had a number of thefts on campus," commented Capt. Thomas Michaud. "As we looked at several cases, there were some obvious similarities that led to the belief it could be a postal worker. So the bait was set."

Borough Det. Dennis McManimon, working in conjunction with officers from University security and postal authorities, set up the operation that led to Lucas's arrest.

Capt. Michaud revealed that the room in Little Hall was on Lucas's appointed route. "We decided to stake out the area," he said. Within two hours after the surveillance had been set up, Lucas entered the room. He had legitimate pieces of mail to be delivered to the room, said Capt. Michaud, who concluded by saying the incident is still under investigation.

The Object Was Green But It Wasn't Money

Shortly before midnight Saturday, Leigh Avenue resident Luis Orellana was about to pay for the sandwich he ordered at Hoagie Haven on Nassau Street. As he reached in his pocket to pull out his money, out popped a small plastic baggie containing green vegetation which fell on the floor. "Oh, my god!" exclaimed Mr. Orellana.

He had reason to be concerned. Standing behind him in uniform was Ptl. Curtis Vanchhoff who was on patrol duty in the area. The fallen baggie was noticed by the officer, who escorted the 37-year-old Orellana to police headquarters where he was charged with possession of less than 50 grams of marijuana and released. He has a date Monday in Borough court.

Two Out of Three In Township Court

In Township court last week, Elizabeth Randall, 32 Redding Circle, was found not guilty on one charge of driving while her license was suspended but fined on two more charges for the same offense. On one she was fined $515, had her license suspended for 30 days and was sentenced to a day in jail; on the second she was fined $785.

Sonya C. Kapoor, 65 Philips Drive, was fined $75 for failure to yield the right of way and Richard P. McPartland, 7 Walnut Grove, Belle Mead, paid $60 for careless driving.

In Borough traffic court Monday, Peter D. Middleton, P.O.

YMCA Plans to Launch Summer Program To Provide Activities for Princeton Teens

The Princeton Family YMCA has launched a summer program to provide evening activities for teenagers and to coordinate under one umbrella those activities already scheduled. This effort to deal with one of the town's nagging problems — a paucity of organized programs for teens — is being led by two youthful members of the YM staff: Cherie Godin, director of marketing and program development; and Dave Anderson, director of health, fitness and recreation.

"This building [The YM-YWCA] becomes a real hangout in the summer. There's not a lot for kids even here. Our outdoor facilities are packed," said Ms. Godin.

Mr. Anderson added that teens have no place to go and very little to do during the day. "There is little or nothing in the evenings," he added.

Model Program Found

The two attended a YM national conference in Baltimore in January which focused on programming for youth at risk. "It became clear to us that there were more negative alternatives for kids these days than positive," said Ms. Godin.

A program called Youthnet was presented by the Kansas City YM. This involved a collaboration of many agencies, institutions, and individuals in the community which offer programs for youth ages 10 to 17.

Returning to Princeton, the two decided to model a program based on the one in Kansas City. They began contacting area groups that serve the youth population.

As of this month, when the program began, some 14 organizations have agreed to become sponsors and participants in Youthnet. They are the Arts Council, Corner House, Council of Community Services, Creative Theatre, Montgomery Evangelical Free Church, Nassau Christian Center, Princeton Alliance Church, Princeton Art Association, Princeton Education Center at Blairstown, the YMCA, the Recreation Department, the Youth Cafe, the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, and YWCA Interim Homes.

Positive Alternatives

Youthnet is described as a net of summer evening activities, existing and new, that catch the interest of youth and provide positive alternatives to high-risk choices. It enables Princeton-area organizations to exchange information about summer evening activities and to foster the development of additional opportunities for youth.

The original goal was to offer something each night, either new activities or those already scheduled by the participating groups. Ms. Godin and Mr. Anderson soon found out that there were few youth activities on anyone's calendar, so they decided to put their energies into several "big" activities to get things going.

The major emphasis this month is on a sports/splash/dance party to be held at the YMCA from 7 to 10 p.m. on Friday, June 22. The evening, for youngsters age 14 to 17, will feature a DJ and door prizes. Admission is free, and participants are asked to bring a bathing suit, towel, bathing cap, sneakers, and sports clothes.

The July and August events have not yet been announced, but they are expected to include a street dance at the Arts Council. Some will charge fees and others will be free. Right now, Ms. Godin and Mr. Anderson are hoping to get events such as trips to baseball games underwritten by area individuals, corporations, or agencies.

"We are trying to keep the majority at no cost, with easy access," said Ms. Godin.

She noted that a number of churches have their own youth programs. These activities will be included in Youthnet if they are general and are not religious instruction.

"Most are general," she said. "The churches do a lot of social activity for this age group."

Focus on Quality

"We will start a little slow and we are hopeful that toward the end of the summer people will recognize Youthnet and look for its flyers," said Mr. Anderson. These flyers are expected to be printed and distributed every two weeks.

"We would like to find additional programs to run, but we don't want to spread too thin," said Ms. Godin. "We are focusing on quality, and will see if quantity will come."

Looking ahead, Mr. Anderson said Youthnet may focus on Friday and Saturday evening activities after school resumes in September.

"All agencies and institutions in town are crying for space," said Ms. Godin. "We wanted to take advantage of the slow time in summer and stop looking at what we don't have and look at what we do have."

LET'S TALK ABOUT

LYME DISEASE

with Sam deTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Lyme Disease can be as simple as a rash or it can be as complicated as a debilitating illness that attacks nearly every system of the body. Then too, it can be something in between.

Although patients have developed early Lyme symptoms during every month of the year, most bites (63%) are received during the summer from June through August.

The culprit that carries Lyme Disease is the deer tick, much smaller and therefore even harder to spot. Its common cousin is the dog tick. The deer tick is misnamed as it will feed on any animal, including people and pets and is especially fond of mice.

The one primary cause of its growth has been the encroachment of suburban homesteads on woodlands and other densely vegetated areas.

All homeowners are advised to take several precautions.

1. Avoid heavily wooded areas where possible.
2. Remove unnecessary brush and vegetative growth on your property.
3. Use insect repellents on clothing before working in yard and gardens.
4. Wear protective clothing: Long sleeved shirts, long pants when exposed to tick areas, tie up and cover long hair. Wear light colored clothing — this makes it easier to spot the ticks.
5. Treat pets and their bedding areas with appropriate products.
6. Treat your lawn and garden areas with a garden insecticide to kill ticks as well as many other damaging insects that can infect your shrubs, trees and flowers.

Fortunately, more and more doctors are becoming aware of Lyme Disease. In high risk areas where doctors have experience with the disease, most victims are treated correctly as soon as the first-stage symptoms occur.

The homeowner should keep the grass cut short and can spray with Diazinon.

Scholarship Foundation Tees Up for Golf Classic

The Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation will hold its annual fund-raiser, the Princeton Golf Classic, at the Springdale Golf Club on Monday. This year's Classic will be played in memory of Eva Collins, a member of the Princeton Regional Board of Education and a leading supporter of the foundation.

The Classic, sponsored by Coopers & Lybrand and supported by the region's corporate community, is the foundation's largest fund-raising event. The Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation provides funds for graduating Princeton High School seniors.

Since its inception in 1986, the event has helped many Princeton High School students make their dreams of attending college a reality. In 1989 alone, the Classic raised more than $40,000 which was distributed among 23 students with financial need.

Members of the area business community donate their time and services to organize the event. To sponsor a foursome, to play as a single golfer, or for more information, call Jim Tees, Coopers & Lybrand, 520-6120.

Bedroom Is Ransacked; Jewelry, Coins Stolen

Late Sunday afternoon, someone entered a Spruce Street apartment without force and stole six pieces of jewelry, worth approximately $1,300, from a bedroom. Also taken from the same room was $360 from a wallet. Dresser drawers in the apartment had been ransacked, police said.

A second-floor bedroom window nine feet above the ground was open and its screen had been removed.

Topics of the Town

Books on Tape Delivered: New Service for Seniors

Thanks to a grant from that anonymous community-minded donor, the Chocolate Cat, there is a new service in town.

Senior citizens and disabled persons who like to read and can't get to the library to bring home a book may call the Senior Resource Center and arrange for a book on tape to be delivered. Delivery and pick-up a week later are free and will be carried out by members of the Intergenerational Program of the Youth Employment Service. Anyone who doesn't have a tape recorder may ask to borrow one, and that too is included in the service.

According to Jacquelyn Thresher, director of the Public Library, and Jocelyn Helm, director of the Senior Resource Center, the Chocolate Cat approached municipal officials with the idea for this service, and they in turn contacted the library and the appropriate agencies. The Chocolate Cat was the source of a grant to the Borough for employing Bill Riezer to keep the Nassau Street sidewalk swept and clean, among other quiet community deeds.

Careful not to reveal his name — just his gender — Ms. Thresher and Ms. Helm say that the Chocolate Cat's distress when his mother, always an avid reader, began to go blind prompted him to initiate the service because books-on-tape meant so much to her. The grant from the Chocolate Cat Foundation, which is in excess of $1,000, has enabled the Public Library to purchase 350 new books-on-tape and will also supply tape decks.

The tapes have arrived and will be housed at the Senior Resource Center during the summer. In the fall, it is hoped that they can be located in one of the school libraries to make it convenient for the students who will deliver them.

The titles include mysteries (lots of Agatha Christie, some Sherlock Holmes and Dorothy Sayers); short stories (by Dorothy Parker, John Cheever); novels (Jane Austen, Margaret Atwood); romance (Mary Stewart and Daphne duMaurier); classics (The Complete Alice in Wonderland); adventure (John LeCarre) and humor (Benchley's Best).

There are inspirational books by Anne Morrow Lindbergh and Robert Fulghum, books on building self-esteem by medical doctors, plays by William Shakespeare, Terence Rattigan, Alan Ayckbourn and Noel Coward, reminiscences by John Gielgud, a collection of poems and a book of Bible passages. Four James Herriot books, recounting his adventures as a veterinarian in rural England, are available, as well as Joy Adamson's Born Free, about life with lions in Africa. Graham Greene is well represented, as are James Michener and Lucy Montgomery.

Recent titles include Nancy Reagan's My Turn and Russell Baker's The Good Times. According to Ms. Thresher, the quality of the narration on the tapes is excellent — sometimes even better than the book itself. She expects to rotate titles to and from the Library's regular books-on-tape collection into the service from time to time.

so that new titles will be available periodically.

Ms. Thresher says that once the tapes begin to get used, the library will know more about the interests of those being served and can select additional titles accordingly. Five seniors have already registered for the program, by calling the Senior Resource Center at 924-7108.

Among the first titles requested were Graham Greene's Our Man in Havana and Neville Shute's A Town Called Alice. Not surprising in this literate town.

From the Governor's Desk

by Jim Florio

In my lifetime I have seen medical discoveries that once would have been called holy miracles. Advances, such as the polio vaccine and organ transplants, have made the lives of so many people longer and healthier.

But there has been little advancement on a different front: the cost of health care. If anything we are worse off than we were forty years ago.

And that's a real shame. It means we've cured diseases that once were death sentences, only to replace them with the heartbreak of bankruptcy.

It shouldn't be that way. Everyone deserves access to quality health care they can afford. What good is a medical discovery no one can buy -- or sell, for that matter?

We have begun in New Jersey to tackle, head-on, the rising cost of health care. It's an issue that deserves national attention, but we can't wait any longer for the federal government to take the lead. The stakes are too high.

How often must we read about families left near bankruptcy and without insurance because they had to face a serious illness? Or parents who have to work two jobs to pay for insurance? Or babies who die because their mothers couldn't pay for inexpensive pre-natal?

I, for one, have read and seen enough. I don't think anyone would disagree with me that our health care system isn't working. Costs are out of control and access is becoming more and more narrow. The plight of our infants is a good example of how misguided the system has become. Three hundred dollars in pre-natal care for a child would result in a healthy baby, and save us all up to $300,000 in emergency care.

The price of health care has skyrocketed in recent years with the result that health insurance costs also have gone up dramatically: about 20 percent per year. Those with employee health insurance are not immune. Worker contributions have gone up an average of 157 percent and companies continue to press their employees to contribute more.

Meanwhile, the number of uninsured continues to increase. In New Jersey the number of people without insurance is near one million, even though almost two-thirds of them have jobs or are dependents of those with jobs. The health care crisis hits hardest at those not old enough for Medicare, not poor enough for Medicaid and not lucky enough to have good employee health benefits.

Those with insurance pay to support those without. Every hospital bill in New Jersey is marked up 19 percent to pay for the cost of the uninsured. By the way, that's an unfair tax on union members of about $1.75 per hour because it helps subsidize non-union shops that avoid getting health insurance for their workers.

So, I have appointed a commission of experts and given them until October to work out a better way to run our health care system. They already have begun to take testimony and have set up a rigorous work schedule that will keep them busy throughout the summer.

I've told the commission not to be afraid to suggest big changes. It may be just the kind of medicine we need. I'm ready and willing to overhaul a system that is clearly sick.

I've told them there is no issue more important to people who work for a living than the high cost of health care. It's a complicated issue that must be dealt with squarely and there is no higher priority in my administration than getting costs down and access up.

Late the previous evening, a home in the 200 block of Nassau Street was entered while the victims were inside in another part of the house upstairs.

Up to 50 pieces of jewelry, much of it costume jewelry, and about $500, most of it in coins, were taken from a first-floor bedroom. Among the coins were several gold pieces and Washington silver quarters. Capt. Thomas Michaud reported that some pieces of jewelry were found outside the home where they had apparently been dropped.

Entry was gained by pushing in a screen insert and opening a screen door off a side porch. The interior door was not locked.

Sometime between Monday and the previous nine days, a jewelry box containing pieces of jewelry valued at $140 and a Sony Walkman worth $103 were stolen from a Spring Street apartment.

There was no forced entry and police have no suspects. Capt. Michaud reports that a number of people were in and out of the apartment over the weeks during which the theft took place.

Landau Shoplifter Caught But Charges Not Filed

Three skirts, a blouse and a sweater, valued at a combined $485, were shoplifted last week at the Landau store, 114 Nassau Street.

"We know who did this, but charges were not filed," said Capt. Thomas Michaud. All the clothing was recovered.

Capt. Michaud explained that the suspect, a woman in her 50s, is believed to have arrived from New York by bus. "She is mentally deficient, possibly harmless," Capt. Michaud added. She was taken to Princeton Medical Center for an evaluation. "We haven't seen her since," said Capt. Michaud this week, five days after the incident.

The suspect was observed putting on a skirt, top and sweater and walking out of the store. She was stopped on the sidewalk and police were called at 10 last Wednesday morning.

A number of grey T-shirts bearing the Princeton name and logo, valued at between $600 and $800, were stolen last week from two wall racks inside the Woolworth store on Nassau Street.

Someone entered an unlocked dorm room in 1903 Hall on the University campus last week, rifled a purse left on top of a dresser, and removed $50.

Three Windows Broken In Business Section Here

Three windows in the Borough's central business district were broken overnight between Saturday and Sunday morning.

A 10-foot square front window at Woolworth's was smashed and had to be boarded up, although police report that nothing was taken. A window at the Tom Tailor sportswear shop, 51 Palmer Square, was broken, but nothing was stolen and no object was found.

A glass pane measuring 1½ by 2 feet at Lahere's Restaurant on Witherspoon Street was shattered, spilling glass fragments on several tables inside. Police believe no entry attempt was made because the window is six feet off the ground. Again, no object was found at the scene.

Six Year Capital Budget Drafted by University

A preliminary draft of Princeton University's first-ever six-year capital budget proposes that the University plan to allocate $118.25 million for capital projects over the next six years.

The draft was reviewed by the board of trustees in April. It has been discussed with the Priorities Committee, department chairs and others on campus and will be discussed further over the summer before going to the trustees for final action in October.

The plan begins by identifying capital projects already under way or recently completed for which funding is still required. These projects include the new Computer Science building; construction of Fisher and Bendheim Halls for the Economics Department and the Center of International Studies, respectively; renovations to Corwin Hall for the Polities Department; the new swimming pool; expansion of the Art Museum; lab renovations; and matching funds for a gift in East Asian Studies.

The total cost of these existing projects is estimated at $75.1 million. The University has raised $47.8 million, leaving an unfunded balance of $27.3 million. The plan proposes to allocate $20 million toward this balance from a $40 million reserve that was accumulated as a result of several real estate transactions involving Paimer Square and Princeton Forrestal Center plus some unallocated capital gifts.

Revolving Loan Fund

The remaining $20 million in this reserve would establish a revolving loan fund that could be used to begin projects for which full funding is not yet available, with the understanding that the fund would have to be replenished before additional loans could be made.

Applying $20 million toward the $27.3 million unfunded balance on current projects leaves a shortfall of $7.3 million that would carry over into the proposed six-year plan. The rest of the plan includes:

- $35.75 million for new construction to meet pressing needs in engineering and materials science. This would include a 65,000-square-foot expansion of the Engineering School to relieve overcrowding and support new activities in Electrical and in Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering, as well as to free up space in the rest of the Engineering School; plus a new 40,000-square-foot facility to house interdisciplinary work in materials science, and a 400-car parking garage. Approximately $20 million has already been raised for these facilities through an anonymous gift, a grant from the State of New Jersey and projected proceeds from a portion of the Forrestal Center development.

- $25.2 million for new construction and renovations relating to the life sciences. This includes a 50,000-square-foot addition to Moffett Laboratories to complete the upgrading of Biology and Molecular Biology that was begun with the construction of Lewis Thomas Laboratory, and renovations in Moffett, Guyot and Eno halls to improve research space and undergraduate labs in biology and related fields;

- $4.5 million for the proposed new Center for Jewish Life. Following the demolition of an existing building at the corner of Washington Road and Ivy Lane, this 15,000-square-foot facility would be constructed on that site;

- $1.5 million to expand the Annex Library on the Forrestal campus. This would relieve pressure on several main campus branch libraries;

- $2.5 million a year for each of the six years to provide capital support for new faculty appointments and new academic programs;

- $1.5 million a year for each of the six years to begin to meet new State-mandated fire code requirements in dormitories and other residential buildings; and

- $12 million in unallocated funds to provide some flexibility for small, hard-to-predict projects and other unanticipated needs.

$80 Million a Year Raised

This adds up to $118.25 million. Of this amount, $22.8 million has already been raised, leaving a fundraising goal for these projects of $94.45 million. In a typical year, the University raises roughly $80 million from all non-government sources, of which more than half goes directly to the operating budget. Some of the capital funds raised each year support purposes other than the projects in the proposed capital budget (such as endowed scholarships or professorships), or life income trusts or other deferred gifts.

Typically the University would expect to raise roughly $11 million a year either directly designated for this list of capital projects or available for allocation to these projects. A total of $66 million in a six-year period would leave a shortfall of roughly $30 million. The plan discusses possible ways of meeting the shortfall, such as taking from endowment or borrowing the money, both of which would impact the operating budget.

Commenting on the plan in the Princeton Weekly Bulletin, President Harold T. Shapiro said that finding the necessary funds would be challenging and that difficult choices would have to be made. He noted that the expenditures fall into two categories.

The first is what he called "absolutely critical academic priorities for Princeton" in engineering, biology and completing the humanities/social sciences renovations under way. The second category "represents an essential investment in infrastructure." He said that the plan is unusual in projecting that almost all of the listed projects would begin this year, in most cases before full funding is in hand.

President Shapiro gave the near-capacity of the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority treatment plant and the moratorium on new sewer connections to the plant as the reason for the haste. Princeton has made reservations for the proposed buildings but they have to be under construction by the end of the year, he said.

He stressed that the projects in the plan "are of crucial importance" to Princeton and said that there would be other projects of comparable importance in the years ahead.

Annual Dinner Dance Will Kick Off June Fete

The June Fete's 37th annual dinner dance will be held Friday at 8 p.m. The dance, sponsored by the Auxiliary of the Princeton Medical Center, will be held on the fete grounds, Washington Road, West Windsor. It will be preceded by the Lane of Shops preview and cocktails at 6 p.m.

Once again, the Madison Hotel Caterers and The Harold Davis Orchestra will provide a sit-down dinner and musical entertainment.

There will be an "Over the Rainbow" silent auction which will include a surprise event featuring today's celebrities and living legends.

The donation is $45 per person, with limited seating still available. For more information, call 275-9656 or 655-0053.

Borough's New Employee Backs Out of His Post

Richard Krawczun, who had accepted the newly created position of assistant Borough administrator, gave his regrets to the Borough a week before he was due to begin. He was presented with a counter-offer by his employer, the City of Asbury Park, and, apparently, it was an offer he could not refuse.

Borough Administrator Mark Gordon went back to his list of finalists and chose a new candidate for the post, Melanie Winton, a resident of Yardley, Pa. She accepted and is expected to begin work on July 9 at an annual salary of $37,000.

Ms. Winton, currently assistant director for business and industry training at Bucks County Community College, has previously served as program manager for Cherry Hill Township and assistant city administrator for Collierville, Tenn.

Landau's Senior Picnic Registration Under Way

The annual Senior Citizen Picnic sponsored by Landau's and Princeton University, will be held Thursday, June 28, from 4 until 6:30 at Forbes College, the former Princeton Inn on Alexander Street. It is open to all Princeton senior citizens. Special guests include residents at Princeton Nursing Home and Merwick. Due to space restrictions, registration is limited to the first 300 people who call.

Picnickers will be entertained by the Rick Fiori Jazz Quartet playing rhythm and blues of Duke Ellington, Cole Porter and Count Basie as well as swing jazz tunes from the 40's and 50's. Sandy Maxwell will be back to play his "oldies but goodies" on the piano during dinner.

Judging for the "Crazy Hat Contest" will take place prior to the drawing for the raffle. Prizes will be awarded for the prettiest, and the most creative hats. Everyone is urged to participate. Prizes for this year's raffle include a big teddy bear, a hand-crocheted afghan, dinner for two at Lahiere's and Great Tastes, and brunch for two at the Hyatt among others.

Tickets cost $2 and will be available at the picnic. Proceeds go toward programs sponsored by the Princeton Senior Resource Center. The menu will consist of barbecued chicken, ribs and salads. Each person will be issued a meal ticket to assure that everyone gets a meal.

Parking will be available in Princeton University Lot 23 off Faculty Road. Shuttles will be provided from Lot 23 to the picnic area from 3:30 until 4:15 and again at the end of the picnic.

New Assistant Head At The Hun School

J. Ann Devitt Trevelyan has been appointed to the newly created post of assistant head of The Hun School.

Dr. Trevelyan completed undergraduate and graduate studies at the University of Nottingham, England, and holds a doctor of education degree from Harvard University.

She will be involved in all areas of school life, but will have primary responsibility for the school's academic program, coordinating the curriculum for grades 6 to 12, recruiting upper and middle school teachers; and overseeing the professional development and evaluation of faculty.

An educator with experience as a school administrator, teacher, and counselor, Dr. Trevelyan has particular expertise in the area of curricular and faculty development. Most recently she served as assistant head for educational development at Newton Country Day School of the Sacred Heart in Newton, Mass., an independent college-preparatory girls' school for grades 6 to 12. She was an educational consultant, and a lecturer in the Graduate School of Education at the University of Lowell, Mass.

Olympic Pool Dedicated At Princeton University

Princeton University dedicated its new $12 million state-of-the-art, 50-meter Olympic pool — designed to be one of the fastest pools in the world — on Friday, June 8.

The pool is named in honor of its principal donor, Ralph D. DeNunzio '53 of Riverside, Conn., his wife Jean and sons, David '78, Peter '81 and Thomas '84.

Street Defense Seminar

The Corporate Health Services Division of the Princeton Area American Red Cross will offer a street defense seminar on Thursday, June 21, from 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. at the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, 237 North Harrison Street.

The seminar will highlight street defense techniques, victim profiles, the law, and victims' rights. Cost is $35 per person. Enrollment is limited to 30, and pre-registration is required.

To register, or for more information, call Sandy Racis at 924-2404.

Designed by the architect Cesar Pelli in tandem with pool engineers Browning Day Mullins Dierdorf, the DeNunzio Pool incorporates a number of innovative and functional design features aimed at making the pool maximize individual performance. A special gutter and infiltration system, water depths that range from nine to 17 feet, and nine-foot wide lanes all combine to minimize water turbulence and enhance swimming speed.

The DeNunzio Pool will be a focal point for Princeton competitive swimming, diving and water polo events. It measures 50 meters by 25 yards. The pool building is east of Jadwin Gymnasium and connected by a newly-constructed tunnel to Caldwell Field House.

The building includes facilities for diving (one- and three-meter springboards and a ten-meter platform with intermediate towers), orange and black bleachers to accommodate 1,300 spectators, men's and women's locker rooms, and exercise room, storage rooms, a refreshment stand, a memorial gallery, handicapped access, offices and a conference room.

The new facility will ease the demand on Princeton's existing pool in Dillon Gymnasium, built in 1946, and the most heavily used athletic facility on campus. It will be a home for the University's swimming and water polo teams, which have won numerous eastern, regional, national and Olympic championships throughout their histories. Despite some of the oldest facilities in the Ivy League, Princeton nonetheless has been ranked as the dominant swimming team in the East for more than two decades.

Mr. DeNunzio is president of Harbor Point Associates Inc., a private investment and consulting firm in New York City. He is the former chairman and chief executive officer of the investment banking firm of Kidder, Peabody & Co. Inc. He served as vice chairman and chairman of the Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange from 1969 to 1972 and was president of the Securities Industry Association in 1981. He served as director of the Securities Investor Protection Corporation under Presidents Nixon, Carter and Reagan and was a trustee of Princeton University from 1982 to 1986.

"Donor Plus One" Week Planned by Red Cross

In an effort to increase the area's volunteer blood donor base, the American Red Cross, Princeton Area Chapter, will host "Donor Plus One" week from Monday, June 25, to Friday, June 29.

The campaign is designed to encourage individuals to donate blood and to bring a friend along to donate. In addition, the chapter is urging past blood donors who have not donated in the past eight weeks to make an appointment.

The aim of Donor Plus One week is to make the Princeton Medical Center the chapter's fixed-donor site, more self-sufficient for its blood needs. Individuals who donate during the campaign will receive a gift.

To schedule an appointment, call the Princeton Area chapter at 924-2404. Individual donors are also welcome. The donor room is open Monday through Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., and Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 7 p.m.

English Language Classes Are Available at YWCA

The summer session of English-as-a-Second-Language, presented in five levels, will begin Monday at the YWCA.

Starting English (Level 1) emphasizes basic words for students who speak little or no English. Discovering English (Level 2) provides practice with basic English in job and social situations. Exploring English (Level 3) continues work on grammatical structure and conversational skills. Thinking English (Level 4) works on fluency, idioms, and advanced vocabulary.

The four levels meet twice a week, during day and evening hours. If a student is unsure of level, placement will be determined by testing on Friday from 10 to noon. Advanced Conversational English (Level 5) for fluent speakers meets on Fridays, noon to 1:30 p.m., starting June 22.

A new class for parents and children meets on Tuesday and Thursday mornings during July. Parents and 4- to 5-year-olds meet from 9 to 10 a.m.; parents and 6- to 9-year-olds meet from 10 to 11 a.m.

Scholarship help is available for all ESL classes. For more information, visit the YWCA on Paul Robeson Place or call Marga Dillow, 497-2100.

Environmental Camp: Dates Are Announced

The Stony Brook Millstone Watershed Association offers environmental summer day camps in one- and two-week sessions for children entering grades 1 to 9.

Explorers Camp for first- and second-graders will be held July 9 to 13, August 6 to 10 and August 13 to 17. Young Conservationists, a program for third- and fourth-graders, is held July 30 to August 3, August 6 to 10, or August 13 to 17. The program includes pond and stream studies, tracking adventures, habitat explorations and close observation of the environment.

Naturalists, July 16 to 27 or July 23 to August 3, for children entering fifth and sixth grades, will include exploring ponds, canoeing, camping, fossil hunting and investigating natural mysteries of the outdoors. Outdoor Challenge, July 9 to 20 is for young adults in seventh, eighth and ninth grades. Participants will canoe and camp on the Delaware River, explore a cave, learn orienteering and investigate many ecosystems.

The programs run from 9 to 4. Costs vary depending on age group. For information call the Watershed Association at 737-7592.

Donations Are Sought For Nicaragua Shipment

The Princeton-Granada Sister Cities Project will collect donations of school and office supplies, tools, toys, household items, sports equipment, medical supplies and summer clothing, on Friday June 22, from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Suzanne Patterson Center behind Borough Hall.

Economic conditions in Nicaragua are worse than ever with the poor bearing the brunt of runaway inflation. Supplies sent from Princeton will be distributed to those most in need through community organizations, the hospital and schools.

Distribution of donated items will be monitored by Jim Harris, formerly with the Center for Central American Refugees in several Sister Cities Projects in New Jersey.

Residents are asked to bring their donations packed in cardboard cartons and clearly labelled with contents. They are also asked to consider making a contribution towards shipping costs. Even though the Princeton-Granada group is sharing this shipment with other groups, it costs $5,000 to send a 40-foot container of material aid.

Checks should be made out to CAR/Sister Cities project (designated "for Shipment") and dropped off on June 22 with cartons, or mailed to PGSCP, 32 Markham Road, Princeton 08540. Contributions are tax-deductible.

Call 924-9537 to make alternate arrangements for dropping off donations or to learn more about the Sister Cities Project.

N.J. Historic Trust Grant To Historical Society

The New Jersey Historic Trust has awarded the Historical Society of Princeton a grant of $217,248 for the restoration of the Bainbridge House. Funding for this major grant, one of 37 awarded in the State, is provided by the 1987 Green Acres Act, which created a State grant program for historic preservation and for which some 125 applications were submitted.

"The Historical Society feels extremely fortunate in receiving almost all of its $225,000 request from the Trust," noted Emily Wallace, director of the Historical Society. Bainbridge House, a landmark in the community which is open to the public and serves as the headquarters for the Society, is one of the oldest surviving buildings in Princeton and one of the area's best preserved examples of mid-Georgian architecture. The Historical Society intends to use the money to stabilize and restore the building and to rehabilitate and improve the property so that it can serve both as a public place and as a state-of-the-art history museum dedicated to the preservation and interpretation of 300 years of Princeton's past.

Built originally as a private home 224 years ago, Bainbridge House sustained heavy use as a public space during the last 80 years. The 56 years of occupation by the Princeton Public Library exerted structural stresses on the building, and the development of Princeton, in particular Nassau Street, continues to place the building in an ever-growing urban environment. Concurrently, the growth in the area population requires the building to be upgraded for increased activity and public use for many years to come.

The restoration work is to be performed under the guidance of Short and Ford, architects. It includes restoration of the spatial integrity of the first floor museum spaces through removal of existing Lally columns and installation of hidden structural reinforcement; improvement of the electrical, security, fire protection, and heating, ventilating and air conditioning systems for the preservation of the building and the important historic collections housed within.

Also, repair and, where appropriate, restoration of 18th-century woodwork, flooring, and wall surfaces; compliance with code requirements without damage to the historic fabric of the building; improvement of the storage and exhibition facilities for the collections, including installation of non-intrusive lighting and display systems; and new access for the handicapped.

The Historical Society hopes to begin the restoration project during the winter of 1991 and to finish by the following fall. "All of our tours, lectures, out-of-town trips, and school programs will continue uninterrupted outside of Bainbridge House," notes Ms. Wallace "and we are even planning two travelling exhibitions that will be available for loan to area organizations." In the meantime a committee composed of Historical Society trustees, outside architects, and restoration experts is working on development and review of the restoration plans, and an active schedule of programs will continue at Bainbridge House through 1990.

Built in 1766 by Job Stockton, a prosperous tanner and cousin of Richard Stockton, signer of the Declaration of Independence, Bainbridge House has been home to several Stockton families. It was the birthplace of William Bainbridge, hero of the War of 1812, and in 1783 the house was listed as providing accommodations for the Continental Congress during its stay in Princeton. In the late 19th century it served as a boarding house for University students, and from 1910 to 1966 it housed the public library.

The exterior of Bainbridge House was meticulously restored by the Historical Society in 1969 to its original 18th-century appearance. Nearly 70% of the original interior woodwork remains, including original paneled walls and flooring. With the exception of circa 1814 alterations to the main parlor and a late 19th-century addition at the rear of the house, almost all of the 1766 structure remains.

Bainbridge house is open seven days a week, 12 to 4 p.m. Admission is free. For further information, call 921-6748.

The league is instructional and recreational in nature. Janet Jelliffe is the swimming coach.

Seventh Graders Named Academically Talented

Grant Gould, son of James and Carol Gould of Herrontown Circle and a student at Princeton Day School, has been recognized by Johns Hopkins University as one of 11 top seventh graders in the country, based on verbal and mathematical scores in the Standard Achievement Tests (SATs).

Each year the Johns Hopkins University Center for the Advancement of Academically Talented Youth undertakes a talent search, inviting public and private schools across the nation to identify their brightest seventh graders. These students, about three percent of all seventh graders, are encouraged to take the SAT, and those whose scores exceed those of the average college-bound senior — 700 to 800 in mathematics and 630 to 800 in verbal achievement — are given awards.

Grant scored second highest in New Jersey in the verbal aptitude test, and received the second highest combined mathematics-verbal scores in the State. He was one of 11 students in the nation cited for having received national honors for their scores in both tests.

Jessica Rosenberg, also at PDS, received national honors for her verbal score, and Tzu-mainn Chen of Princeton Montessori School and Joyce Liu, West Windsor-Plainsboro Middle School, received national honors for their mathematics scores.

Other Princeton middle school students who received State or regional awards in the Johns Hopkins Talent Search were Richard Arnheim and Franny Tsai, John Witherspoon Middle School; David Babad, Michael Desenna, David Jackson, James To and David Wiskowski, Princeton Day School; Miriam Kulkarni and Tara Shingle, Chapin School; and Brian Mazzocchi, The Hun School.

Also, Rnhashree Datta, Theodor Dumitrescu, Ellen Fan, Tony Gentile, Howard Goldstein, Lauren Grodnieki, Timothy Kerwin, Jiyeon Kim, Catherine Lyon, Benjamin Mao, Eric Nguyen, Joshua Shapiro, Kevin Stults, Ravi Shuresh, Vivien Valenzuela, and Gnyatri Yndavalli, all West Windsor-Plainsboro Middle School; Erin Baunin, Sumeet Dandekar, Jennifer Whartenby and Peter Vinch, Lawrence Middle School;

Also, Morgan Blackwell, Derek Campbell, Kelly Carpenter, Samuel Floyd, Anninda Hiner, Daniel Petrillo, Jennifer Swanson, and Julie Wilbur, Timberlane School; and Steven Hauser and Alan Post, Montgomery Middle School.

John Bertalot, director of music of Trinity Church and adjunct associate professor at Westminster Choir College, has been invited to make a five-week tour of South Africa this summer.

Mr. Bertalot will lecture on number symbolism in the music of J.S. Bach at the universities of Johannesburg and Bloemfontein and will direct a number of music workshops for choirmasters in Pietermaritzburg, Durban and East London. He will be working with music teachers at schools and he will be a guest director for three days at the South African Boychoir School in Drakensberg.

In addition he will conduct a massed choirs' festival in Archbishop Tutu's cathedral in Cape

TOP SEVENTH GRADER: Twelve-year-old Grant Gould receives his award in a ceremony at Rutgers University for having scored as well as college-bound high school students in both the verbal and mathematics Scholastic Aptitude Tests taken by a selected group of middle school students across the country. Grant is in the middle school at Princeton Day School.

Town, lead a weekend for advanced singers in Johannesburg cathedral and end his tour with a broadcast concert of some of his compositions sung by two of South Africa's choirs.

This will be Mr. Bertalot's third visit to South Africa. On previous tours he has directed similar workshops and festivals which were sponsored by the Royal School of Church Music, of which he is a special commissioner.

Nicholas O. Hahn, of Princeton, has been promoted to product director of exploratory new products at McNeil Consumer Products Co., Fort Washington, Pa.

A graduate of Middlebury College, he spent four years in account management at Saatchi & Saatchi.

Army Reserve Private 1st Class Ann D. Williams, daughter of Kathy Winder, 24 Deer Path, has completed basic training at Fort Dix.

She is a 1978 graduate of Princeton High School.

Air Force 1st Lt. Chris T. Froehlich, son of Fred and Gloria V. Froehlich, 16 Canoe Brook Drive, Princeton Junction, has arrived for duty in England.

He is a logistics plans and programs officer with the 48th Tactical Fighter Wing.

The lieutenant is a 1979 graduate of West Windsor-Plainsboro High School and a 1984 graduate of Rider College.

Jessica M. Knoble, daughter of Mary M. Knoble of Princeton, a junior at Phillips Exeter Academy in Exeter, N.H., won a varsity letter for her boat's undefeated season, culminating in a victory over six competing schools in the 41st annual New England Inter-Scholastic Rowing Association Championships for Prep Schools, in the Women's Third/Eight competition.

She is a high honors student at the Academy and has been accepted for the senior writing course. She plans to crew with the Carnegie Lake Rowing Association during the summer.

Three area residents were among 324 New Jerseyans honored at the fifth annual young citizen awards dinner. The awards were established by Senator Bill Bradley to honor young people, 15 to 20 years old, who serve their community and State with distinction.

The recipients were Sabrina Su and Eric Horn of Princeton, and Sharon Chen of Princeton Junction.

The South Kent School (Conn.) varsity lacrosse team, coached by Christopher L. Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Landon Peters, 72 Knoll Drive, won the Western New England Division II Championship with a 9-0 record in the division. The team's overall season record was 12-2.

Mr. Peters has taught mathematics and coached football and basketball as well as lacrosse during the past four years. He is a 1982 graduate of Princeton High School and a 1986 graduate of Middlebury College.

Picnic YES, Voting NO, Poor Example for Kids

To the Editor of Town Topics:
On election day June 5, 1990, we were tending the books and voting machines in District 3 of Princeton Township from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. Of 580 registered voters 70, or about 12%, cast their ballots at Riverside School.

On the same day, from 5:30 p.m. until 7:30 p.m., the Spring picnic of the Riverside school took place on the school fields. The place was packed with parents and children.

People here in Princeton's District 3 seem to say: Picnic YES — Voting NO.

What an example this sets for our children. I, for one, am deeply disturbed by this. What does this tell us about the viability of our democratic system, the belief in freedom of choice and the responsibility of a citizen?

—HAROLD L. LOEW
16 Overbrook Drive

Palmer House Parking Shouldn't Be Considered

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Following is a letter I have written to Marvin R. Reed, President of Borough Council.

As a former Borough resident who would return more often if only I could park there, I applaud the council's effort to provide parking for people who work in the Borough. But I'm left shaking my head at your choice of the back yard at Palmer House as the site for 45 spaces to replace those soon to be lost at the Maclean Street lot.

A more logical and appealing place for those 45 spaces could be found elsewhere — for example, along Monument Drive, by making the parking there diagonal, as it is now by the Dinky, and by bringing order to the chaotic parking situation around Borough Hall. Such spaces could be used around the clock, and not merely for the daylight period now contemplated for the Palmer House lot. Further, by using Monument Drive and its environs, you would be expanding on an existing parking area.

Pedestrian Protection Needed Here

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Whatever became of pedestrian protection on the street corners of downtown Princeton? Traffic lights are especially few and far between in this city; and many corner crossings are not marked by white lines; and where they are marked, people trying to use them find that passing cars rarely stop for them, or even slow down.

At 3:30 on June 4, I watched a youngster of about seven wheel a large bike between the white lines of a walkway where Moore Street intersects Nassau. When he got half way across, he had to wait precariously in the middle of the busy road while I counted 18 eastbound cars which whizzed past within inches of that bike's front wheel without even slowing down. I was afraid that the child might panic and bolt the rest of the way across before it was safe for him to do so, but finally one driver let him get to the curb.

This is the situation all over town, and with traffic on the increase, what's needed, it seems to me, is the kind of pedestrian protection that works well in California and England and elsewhere. In those places pedestrian street crossings are painted with vivid cross-hatching, and the law requires drivers to come to a complete stop whenever they see a person on foot on one of them, and to stay stopped until the person has reached the other side. Drivers, including out-of-town drivers, quickly learn the rules about such safety zones, and enforcing them is easy and inexpensive.

NANCY T. SOMMERS
207 Riverside Drive

Resorting to Palmer House, on the other hand, invades a place better left green. Palmer House and its grounds constitute one of the last of the grand spaces in the Borough that has not been carved into condominiums or gutted for development. Not yet, anyway. Turning its lawn into a parking lot, no matter how gracefully, diminishes it. Turning it into a park would be more fitting.

I understand your need to accommodate an ever larger body of people who drive to work in Princeton. I understand, too, the University's urge to be a good neighbor, particularly in light of the harsh criticism it has received for its development plans near the engineering school. Parking cars on the Palmer House lawn, however, represents an expediency best left to another century, and the later in another century, the better. The University should conserve its unique green spaces. The Borough should encourage the conservation.

J. REGAN KERNEY
Box 6535, Lawrenceville

Society Is Distressed At Palmer House Plan

To the Editor of Town Topics:
The Board of Trustees of the Historical Society of Princeton would like to express its distress with regard to the proposed parking on the property of Palmer House.

Palmer House is not only an historic building, but it is one of the few remaining buildings in downtown Princeton that retains a portion of its historic landscape. We hope that Princeton Borough will consider other options for parking.

CONSTANCE M. GREIFF
President, Historical Society of Princeton

Town's Public Library Is a Valuable Resource

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The public should appreciate what a valuable resource they have in the Princeton Public Library. In an area where there are many large private and public universities, each maintaining their own private library, to have a public library maintained with such care and thoughtfulness, is something to give gratitude for.

The Princeton Public Library has a juvenile and youth department containing books separated according to the reading ability and interest of the young reader, on a surprisingly wide and deep variety of topics.

There is a good selection of periodicals, and the reference and computer systems constitute a research facility that is capable of satisfying the needs of the general population. Those of us who borrow books, and make use of the facilities should also support the Library.

Donations are, of course, one way to accomplish this, but to volunteer time and or books is another. Making the effort to return books to the proper place on the shelves or leaving them on the moveable tables provided, is another. Let the Princeton community support itself by encouraging its most easily accessible learning resource.

JUDITH LOCKWOOD
PO Box 632, Princeton

Thanks so much to Landau's Adopt-A-Neighbor program for the Kousa dogwood tree which has replaced a tree destroyed by hight a few years ago.

IT'S NEW To Us

Painter Imitates Marble With Special Techniques

"This is a centuries-old technique. The ancient Persians were doing it," says decorative painter Peter Merscher, referring to marbling. This special painting technique, also known as faux marble, transforms small pieces of furniture, picture frames and other accessories into marble look-alikes.

"Also," he adds, "you see a lot of faux marble in churches in Italy. Historic restoration also calls for it, and as a look, it has become especially popular here in the last five years."

It can work on any surface throughout the house, he says, but is particularly appropriate in formal living rooms or dining rooms. "It's often popular for woodwork around the fireplace," he adds. "Newel posts, mirrors and picture frames also can be marbled, and some people even like telephones, chests and small decorative pieces painted in this way. I've also done columns in a house. It's appropriate for any type of house — old, contemporary or traditional."

Faux bois, which gives a grained wood-type of finish, is especially popular for small end tables, chests and small boxes, he reports. A "country" graining-type finish offers a "distressed" or older look to the pieces.

The name for a better life.

ARTISTIC EMBELLISHMENT: "Give me a piece of marble, and I can match it," says decorative painter Peter Merscher, who specializes in faux marble and faux bois; that is, painted woodwork, furniture and accessories that look like marble or grained wood. "Initially," he adds, "when you walk in a room and see it, it looks like marble or antique or grained wood. You take ordinary woodwork and give it added depth. It gives the illusion of something more."

Mr. Merscher, who works out of Bedminster, Pa., studied at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and has been specializing in decorative painting for the past four years. "I've actually been in the painting business for 20 years," he explains, "but now I concentrate on painting finishes and decorative painting for interiors. It gives me more creative enjoyment. It's really an artistic endeavor."

A full range of color possibilities is available, he adds, and he also notes the necessity for proper and thorough preparation. "This is very important, as is the knowledge of the materials. Often a number of different things are layered on top of each other, and they must be compatible."

Different Look for Walls

Mr. Merscher also uses glazing techniques on walls, which can result in a variety of different looks. "Wall glazings are very appropriate for formal dining rooms and living rooms," he points out, "but they can vary a lot. I've even done something that looks like leather."

He handles both commercial and residential work, although he particularly enjoys the latter. "I prefer the smaller residential jobs," he says. "They can be especially satisfying. Also, I've nearly always been in business for myself," he adds, "and I've kept my business small. It's my trademark. I like being my own boss, and I like having the ability to control the quality."

His commercial work has included a faux bois painting job at the Odeon Restaurant in Philadelphia, which entailed extensive restoration throughout the restaurant. He was also asked to marble a mantel for the Phillips Estate Designer Showhouse in Princeton last month.

When he gets some rare extra time, he enjoys drawing, especially portraits and still life. "It's good therapy!" he says with a smile. He also especially likes working with colors. "I think I have a very good sense of color and the ability to work with color. This is important because there are so many color possibilities. I love working with colors, and I am always trying to achieve a particular look and blend of colors."

"I love the idea of actually painting," he continues, "and there is also the visual image when it's finished. I also like the challenge of meeting someone's needs. I enjoy getting to know different people and seeing what they want done."

Consultation Important

He adds that he always plans a client consultation during which he shows samples and pictures of his work. He and the client discuss the job and he gives an estimate. If it's a small piece, Mr. Merscher takes it to his workshop. Larger pieces, and walls and woodwork, of course, are done in place.

Prices are determined by the size and complexity of the job. "A small mirror or looking glass could be in the $200 range, while other jobs are much more," he explains.

His work is focused in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, although he will travel within the Boston-Washington corridor if the job merits it. Word-of-mouth referrals have been excellent, he notes, adding, "I am always looking forward to introducing more people to this special look."

Mr. Merscher's hours are Monday through Friday, 9 to 5, and he can be reached any time at (215) 795-2083.

Middle Eastern Food At Sahara Restaurant

"When people come in who have never had our food before, they often don't know what to order and ask us to recommend something. So, I'll suggest the combination dinner, and they say, 'Everything is delicious!' They seem to like everything," Jamil Hage, owner of Sahara Restaurant in the Montgomery Shopping Center at Routes 206 and 518, smiles as he describes the reaction of customers to his Middle Eastern cuisine.

"Also," he adds, "when people try our food, they seem to like it right away, and they tell others. I think Americans are more willing now to try other cuisines."

Sahara Restaurant opened just six weeks ago, and Mr. Hage reports that there is already a group of regular customers. "All ages like it," he says, "and people are coming from all over the area, and from Trenton, Yardley, Pa., and Somerville. We have already established a good reputation. We also get a lot of students and professors coming in."

MIDDLE EASTERN EDIBLES: "Middle Eastern food is healthy. It's all natural, and it tastes great!" says Jamil Hage, owner of Sahara Restaurant in the Montgomery Shopping Center. Offering dishes native to Lebanon, Egypt and Israel, as well as Greece, the new restaurant is becoming a gathering place for those with a taste for tabouleh, babaghannouj, sanbouseik, shish kebab and stuffed grape leaves.

Mr. Hage came to the United States from Lebanon 16 years ago and has been in the food business ever since. He owned a Middle Eastern restaurant in New Brunswick and also had a catering business. "I also used to do festivals around here as well as other places," he recalls, "and I felt there was no other restaurant like this. We're the only place around here serving Middle Eastern dishes, and we have a wide variety — a very large selection."

Lunch, dinner and take-outs are available, and Mr. Hage notes that specialties include kibbe (meat mixed with cracked wheat, pine nuts, onions and spices), falafel, a blend of chick peas, fava peas and other vegetables; homous, mashed chick peas with tahini sauce; kafta kebab, ground beef mixed with chopped parsley, onions and spices; and chicken and rice with pine nuts and walnuts.

Falafel is especially popular with customers, adds Mr. Hage, as are tabouleh (chopped parsley, tomatoes, scallions, wheat germ and mint) and homous. "I notice that a lot of people are ordering our vegetarian dishes," he says, "and people are more interested in eating healthy food. Everything is made fresh here on the premises, and people like that."

Special Appetizers and Desserts

Soups and appetizers are also popular, and the restaurant offers such specials as lentil, lamb and vegetable and chicken and rice soups. Favorite appetizers include sanbouseik (beef wrapped in dough with onions and put nuts) and stuffed grape leaves. Among the desserts, the ever-popular baklava is always in demand and is available in different flavors, including almond, walnut and pistachio.

Sahara Restaurant does not have a liquor license, but customers are welcome to bring their own wine or drinks, notes Mr. Hage. Among other libations, fresh carrot juice is very popular, and he adds that the restaurant's Turkish coffee is guaranteed to keep you alert.

Mr. Hage especially enjoys cooking. Three other cooks assist him in the food preparation, but he says he is always glad to get into the kitchen. "Cooking is creative. I enjoy creating the different dishes."

People are coming in for both lunch and dinner, as well as for the take-out service, he reports. A popular quick snack is a spinach pie for $1.50, and sandwiches range from $2.25 to $5. Dinners are $7 to $12 and include entree, homous, babaghannouj (mashed smoked eggplant with tahini sauce), rice and tabouleh.

Sahara Restaurant also offers a catering service, says Mr. Hage. "We do food preparation for any occasion and any size gathering — from one to 200. We just need some advance notice. We can provide everything from the appetizers to complete dinners."

"Service is very important," he adds. "We try our best to please our customers. I enjoy the people so much, and I'm really so happy here. We just hope we can continue to introduce more people to our food."

Sahara Restaurant is open 11 to 10 Monday through Saturday. 921-8336.

Outdoor Jazz Concerts Planned by Saxophonist

Saxophonist Marc McDonald will lead his jazz group in two outdoor concerts in the upcoming week. On Thursday he will perform at the Princeton Shopping Center as part of its Thursday Night Live concert series. The two-hour concert begins at 6 and will take place rain or shine.

Then on Wednesday, June 20, Mr. McDonald will appear from 12:15 to 1:30 at the Carnegie Center as part of its lunchtime concert series. The raindate is Thursday, June 21.

Mr. McDonald, a 1979 Princeton High School graduate, plays the alto and soprano saxophones in a style that has been noted for its warm lyricism. His band performs a mixture of jazz standards and original compositions.

June Opera Will Open With "Don Giovanni"

The June Opera Festival of New Jersey, a professional opera company that presents great opera in English each summer at The Lawrenceville School, will open its seventh season Friday at 8 with Mozart's Don Giovanni.

Considered by many to be Mozart's greatest opera, Don Giovanni tells the infamous story of Don Juan, whose wanton ways lead him to destruction. The opera combines the timeless themes of lust and honor with Mozart's incomparable music. Following the opening night performance, Don Giovanni will repeat June 17 at 3 p.m., June 23 at 8, July 1 at 3 and July 7 at 8.

The season continues with Strauss's Die Fledermaus, opening June 22 at 8 p.m. Filled with the Viennese waltzes for which Strauss is famous, Die Fledermaus is a classic comedy of errors that tells the story of an elaborate practical joke staged at a glittering masked ball. Performances of Die Fledermaus will be given June 22 at 8, June 24 at 3, June 30 at 8, July 6 at 8, and July 8 at 3.

The June Opera season also includes a concert evening, "American Songbook," Friday, June 29, at 8. The concert will feature songs of Stephen Foster, Aaron Copland, George Gershwin, Cole Porter and other composers whose works have had a lasting impact on our musical heritage.

Audiences are invited to picnic on The Lawrenceville School grounds before the evening performances. Gourmet catered picnics are available.

out must be ordered in advance.

Tickets and subscriptions range from $10 to $80 and may be ordered at 737-7722 during business hours. Visa and MasterCard are accepted.

Suzette and Faxion will open their performance with a set of top 40 tunes, including songs by Whitney Houston, Taylor Dane, Diana Ross and Aretha Franklin. Following a short intermission, Suzette will return to entertain the audience with her Tina Turner look-alike show. Suzette has performed songs from the years of Ike and Tina to Turner's top hits of today for audiences from New York City to Las Vegas for the past 10 years.

Music in the Air will continue on Thursday, June 21, at 5:30 with the big hand sounds of the Marie Landus Orchestra. Wet Paint will stir things up on June 28 with a sing-along and a painting concert. The music series moves to Friday on July 6 for the Plainsboro July 4 fireworks display featuring the New Jersey Pops Symphonic Winds.

Outdoor Concert Planned By Trenton Brass Quintet

The Lawrence Township Summer Series will continue on Tuesday, June 26, with a performance by the Trenton Brass Quintet Plus One.

The community is invited to bring lawn chairs and blankets to the Rider College Student Center patio at 7 p.m. for this free concert. In case of rain, the concert will be moved indoors to the Student Center Theater.

The Trenton Brass Quintet Plus One has been playing everything from Bach to rock and classical to jazz since 1973. The program will include a wide variety of pieces such as Renaissance, Baroque, classical, opera, jazz, Dixieland, and big band.

The group includes Karl I. Megules, artistic director and tuba; Joseph Scannella, trumpet; John Peraino, trumpet; Peter Reichlin, trombone; Nancy Gallagher, French horn; and Leonard Pucciatte, percussion.

Summer Cinema to Start 14th Season on June 21

McCarte will open its 14th season of its Summer Cinema series at Kresge Auditorium on the Princeton University campus this year, on Thursday, June 21, with a 10-week series of double-feature film presentations.

William W. Lockwood Jr., program director, has introduced a new attraction to this year's screenings. "In response to repeated requests from our loyal audience, we are reversing showtime order of each double-feature for one day of its three-day run." This year's program will encompass 18 double features, drawn from 11 different nations.

Represented will be the work of such masters of the cinema as Scorsese, Wenders, Lynch, Bertolucci, Houston, Frears, Almodovar, Jewison, and many others.

Discount coupon books, offering 10 admissions for only $33 — a savings of 25% off the regular admission price of $4.50 — will again be available from the McCarte box office, and also at the door once the season has begun.

Summer Cinema '90 will open with The Draughtsman's Contract, a work from Peter Greenaway, and Dangerous Liaisons, directed by Stephen Frears. The Draughtsman's Contract is probably the cinema's first restoration comedy-mystery — an enigmatic tale of manners and murder set in a great English country house in 1694. Stephen Frears' Dangerous Liaisons is his fleet and ferocious adaptation of the Christopher Hampton play which becomes a maze of sexual betrayal and aristocratic intrigue.

The double feature for June 26 through June 28 will be Chocolat, which is based on director Claire Denis's childhood experiences in French colonial Africa and Black and White in Color, the dark-horse winner of the 1976 Oscar for Best Foreign Film. It is set in the dry, hot savannah of West Africa in 1914.

The double feature for the weekend June 29 through July 1 will feature Blue Velvet and The Thin Blue Line.

Blue Velvet is a true rarity: a coming-of-age movie in which sex has the danger and the heightened excitement of a horror picture. For those with the will to follow it anywhere, it is as fascinating as it is freakish, a guilty parable of sin, redemption and true love. The second film of the evening, The Thin Blue Line, saved a life — or at least saved an innocent man from spending the rest of his life in prison.

In selecting this summer's offerings, Mr. Lockwood has brought back several all-time Summer Cinema audience favorites, including Tampopo, aptly described as a Japanese noodle western. The film is about a young widow who wants to become a great noodle chef, and the cowboy-hatted truck driver who comes into her life to help her accomplish this. Murmur of the Heart, director Louis Malle's post-Freudian fairy tale, has gained stature in its recent re-release as a classic comedy and a social document. Last Tango in Paris remains the most powerfully erotic and sexually liberating movie of our time.

with a View, E. M. Forster's sweetest and sunniest novel, is the story of Lucy Honeychurch, an unformed and largely stifled upper-middle-class girl who travels to Italy in 1907, falls in love, and is eventually liberated from the mores and conventions of Victorian England. The Return of Martin Guerre is a hidden love story which is also a stirring, perversely ironic tribute to the institution of marriage, and Local Hero is an irresistible, benevolent fable about a happy interlude of culture shock.

This season, Summer Cinema pays tribute to Time's Ten Best Films of the Decade: 1980-90. Wings of Desire, based on poems of Rainer Maria Rilke, is as much a re-examination of the divided city of Berlin as it is a thoroughly romantic love story about unhappy angels who long to be men. Raging Bull is an extraordinary biography of Jake La Motta, the middleweight boxing champion from 1949 to 1951; and The Last Emperor made a virtual sweep of the 1987 Oscars, including best picture, director, screenplay and cinematography.

There will also be a host of films receiving their first Summer Cinema screenings, including Gus Van Sant Jr.'s Drugstore Cowboy, in which Matt Dillon and Kelly Lynch play a bedraggled and stoned young outlaw couple; Steven Soderbergh's sex, lies and videotape, a rich and absorbing tale of sexual greed and fear, love and betrayal; Norman Jewison's Moonstruck, a dazzling romantic comedy about the lives and loves of an extended Italian-American family in Brooklyn; Nancy Suvoca's True Love, which is an exuberant film about a big Italian-American wedding; and Kenneth Branagh's Henry V, one of the surprise movie sensations of 1989.

Also in this category are Vasily Pichul's Little Vera, the film that startled the Soviet Union; and The Little Thief, which stems from a concept by the late Francois Truffaut.

Three more include Mississippi Burning, a fictionalized version of the murders of Chaney, Schwerner and Goodman, the three civil rights workers who "disappeared" until their bodies were found buried in a dam near Philadelphia, Miss.; Bille August's Pelle the Conqueror, based on the Danish classic by Martin Anderson Nexø, which follows a staunch, wide-eyed Swedish boy who has come to Denmark with his aging, destitute and widowed father in search of a better life; and High Hopes, a comedy about working-class life in the stagnant state of Thatcherite Britain. For a complete listing of Summer Cinema's offerings, see Pages 34 and 35. For more information, call McCarter's box office, 683-800.

STURHAHN, DICKENSON & BERNARD

Here's an amazing story of a father-and-son who played big league baseball — Gus and Buddy Bell ... Gus Bell played in the majors from 1950 to 1964 and his son, Buddy, played from 1972 through 1989 ... Incredibly, in all the years they both played, they each wound up with almost the exact same batting average and home run totals ... Gus Bell had a career batting average of .281, and Buddy .279 ... Gus hit 206 homers in his career and Buddy hit 201.

A real oddity happened in baseball in 1979 when the SAME pitcher led the National League in both wins AND losses ... Pitcher Phil Niekro won 21 games, which were the most by any pitcher in the league that year — but he also lost 20 games to lead the league in most losses ... That was the first time that happened in major league baseball.

Fed up with Blue Cross rate increases? Call us about low cost medical insurance.

What's the oldest pro sports league in America? ... Answer is baseball's National League, which began in 1876 and has operated every year since ... Surprisingly, baseball's American League didn't start until 25 years after the National, in 1901.

3 Princeton Seniors Honored Monday For Outstanding Athletic Achievements

Three Princeton University seniors were honored for their contributions to athletics at Class Day exercises held Monday.

The William W. Roper trophy, given to the best male athlete in the senior class, went to Judd Garrett. Garrett's contributions to the football team the past three seasons are well known. He holds a parcel of records for rushing, all-purpose running and scoring in one game, season and career categories.

In the history of Princeton football, he ranks as one of the top three running backs. Garrett will now get a chance to prove himself in pro football with the Philadelphia Eagles, starting with training camp next month.

The C. Otto vanKienbusch award for Sportswoman of the Year was presented to Sandi Bittler, who rewrote the record books in a superb career in women's basketball. Bittler, a four-year starter for the Tigers, and an all-Ivy first team selection the past two years, is the all-time leading scorer in the sport here. She also holds league markers for three-point shots.

A two-time academic all-American, Bittler received a Baden Scholarship and a NCAA post-graduate scholarship. Her immediate plans are uncertain, and she has deferred these scholarships for the moment.

Andrew Dechet won the Class of 1916 Cup, a awarded to the varsity letter winner in any sport who has the highest academic standing in the University. A three-year letter winner in soccer, Dechet won all-Ivy honors, led Princeton in scoring for the past two years, and led the league as a junior. The Tigers won the league title two years ago, and qualified for the NCAA Tournament last fall.

Dechet, a German literature major, received a Rhodes Scholarship, and will study at Oxford the next two years.

Diverging Paths Taken By Princeton Posts 218, 76

For newcomer Princeton Post 218 and battle-tested Princeton Post 76 there were no surprises in the opening week of play in the Mercer County American Legion League.

Princeton Post 218 expects to take some knocks as it struggles to overcome its inexperience, and it did — losing all three of its first games by wide margins. Post 76, blessed with a combination of good pitching and good hitting, got off to an impressive 3-0 start.

Post 218 manager Tom Parker does not fear losing; what he fears is that his young players will start to hang their heads if the losses keep piling up. "As the season progresses, I think we'll be a better ball club," said Parker.

In games this weekend, Post 218 will host Bordentown on Saturday and then meet rival Post 76 for the first time on Sunday.

In its most recent start on Sunday, Post 218 was routed, 24-1, by Hopewell Post 239. Hopewell started off fast by scoring six runs in the first, and never slowed its hitting attack.

Hopewell's Mark Gola had four hits and drove in five runs, and Tom Clos belted a three-run homer to pace the victors' attack. Dan Wilson suffered his second loss of the young season for Post 218 but was the top Princeton performer at the plate with two hits.

The previous day, Post 218 was tamed by Trenton Post 93 pitcher Mike Talmage, who struck out 13 batters and walked only one in the seven innings he worked. Trenton won the nine-inning contest, breezing to a 16-1 win.

Trenton erupted for 16 hits off three Post 218 pitchers, as it led 12-1 after three innings. Starter Matt Baum was wild from the beginning. He walked seven and was tagged for nine runs, four of them earned, in the 1½ innings he worked. He was charged with the loss.

Joe Hayek had two of Princeton's four hits and drove in Post 218's only runs in the second.

Post 218's opening in second play came early and it was harsh. In its opener last week in Trenton against Mitchell Davis Post 182, the host team went 5-3-7 in the first three innings. The final: Mitchell Davis 17, Post 218, 2.

Wilson started on the mound for Post 218 and was in trouble from the start — not all of it his own doing. Wilson yielded just one hit in the first frame but that, combined with three walks and four errors, added up to five runs.

M-D added three more in the second and put the game out of reach with seven in the third. Miller left after getting only one out in the third and having surrendered 11 runs. A two-run homer by Anthony Zeppadero, and triples by Bryan Midura and Rob Williams, fueled M-D's seven-run third.

Baum collected two of Princeton's five hits and Ben Stentz stole three bases and had an RBI single to account for most of Princeton's offense. Aaron Cooper had a hit and drove in a run and Chris Healey also had a hit for Post 218. All are former Princeton High players.

Parker allowed that his team had some opening-game jitters and butterflies, but insisted "The kids didn't look that bad."

Post 76 Routs M-D

After an opening win, Princeton Post 76 scored impressive back-to-back wins over the weekend to run its record to 3-0 and become one of the three unbeaten teams in the 11-team league after the first week of play.

Post 76 on Sunday welcomed back manager Larry Bender (Bender had to sit out the first two games as a result of a two-game suspension handed down last year for criticizing the league in the press) by routing Mitchell-Davis, 27-3. Post 76 exploded for 23 hits, including five by rightfielder Mike Andolina who drove in six runs.

Bolting to a 7-0 lead after two innings, Post 76 erupted for 11 more in the fourth and the rout was on. For Post 76 players it was a day for fattening averages. Scott Petrone connected for three hits in five at bats and drove in two runs; Peter Prodanov had four hits in six appearances, drove in one run and scored four; and 16-year-old Matt McClenahan banged out three hits, drove in two runs and scored three times. Jeff Skalinski picked up the easy win.

The previous day, interim coach Jerry Price had run his record to 2-0 when Post 76 defeated Hamilton High, 6-2, at the Steinert High diamond.

The game was tied at 1 at the end of five innings. In the sixth, Post 76 plated two runs on doubles by Andolina and Greg Papciak, a single by Craig Schwartz and Shawn Murphy's sacrifice fly. Post 76 nailed down the outcome with three more runs in the next inning which featured RBI singles by Prodanov and Schwartz.

PITCHES BEST GAME: Princeton High Junior Collin Apse, who pitched PHS to an upset 5-4 victory over Hamilton last week, described the win as "the best game of my life."

Petrone, Andolina, Schwartz and Prodanov each had two hits to account for all but one of Post 76's nine in the nine-inning contest. Shawn Murphy started for Post 76 on the mound and went six innings, walked only one and gave up one run. Andolina came in to hurl the last three.

Post 76 will oppose Hopewell on Saturday in Pennington before meeting Post 218 the next day.

PHS Ends With a Win For a 5-15-1 Record

"A great way to end. It's kept me on a high for two days."

Enjoying the comforts of Cloud 9 and feeling good was Princeton High baseball coach Larry Mansier. Rightfully so. Fifteen days after his team had lost a 4-0 decision to visiting Nottingham — a defeat that had extended its losing streak at home on its refurbished Valley Road Field — the Little Tigers defied all the odds in their delayed final game of the season.

PHS upset Hamilton, 5-4, to deny the Hornets their chance to tie Nottingham for the Valley Division crown in the Colonial Valley Conference. It also accomplished the following: it won for the first time at home in two years. It got to play the role of spoiler for the second time this season (the first, an upset of Ewing in the opening round of the Mercer County Tournament after having lost to Ewing, 23-4, a week earlier) and it captured its fifth win — five times as many as the single game it won the year before in Mansier's first year as coach. PHS finished with a 5-15-1 record.

"We could be looking up," said Mansier. "We have players who know what to do with the ball once they get it. Players who know what to do to win and who know how to play as a team."

Mansier loses some key players to graduation. One, certainly, is Luis Estrada who entered Friday's final game with a .407 batting average. Estrada got two hits against, the only PHS player to get more than one, and as a pitcher, he owned one of Princeton's five wins. "He's a big player to lose," agreed Mansier.

Also departing will be short-stop Scott Petrone, a three-year starter, who batted over .300 this year. Petrone's double highlighted Princeton's three-run first inning against Hamilton. Others graduating are catcher Russ Levine, outfielders Danny Page and Jim Brophy, pitcher/third baseman Tom Shockley, pitcher Chris Kagay and pitcher/utility infielder Don DiDonato.

Mansier welcomes back a fine nucleus of younger players including sophomore Ben Stentz, who batted .330, Chris Healey and Alex Weinberg. Juniors Dave Long and Matt Baum will bring experience to the team but Mansier predicted Princeton's fortunes in 1991 will depend in part on how quickly some promising freshman players mature. "We'll see," he said. "Next year we're going to be better."

A Better Team That Day

Both PHS and Hamilton were guilty of four errors in their contest but Mansier insisted, "It really wasn't a tradeoff. I felt we were a better team that day and I can't always say that."

Hamilton took a one-run lead in the first after Jeff Quick belted Colin Apse's first pitch of the game for a triple and scored on a sacrifice fly. PHS scored three runs in its half of the first, only to see Hamilton score three in the second, taking advantage of two PHS errors. PHS plated a single run in the second to knot the score at 4. Petrone, DiDonato, Page and Estrada all had RBI hits for PHS.

It remained tied until the fifth when Estrada led off with a single and advanced to second on Long's bunt. Long was safe when catcher Chris Wayda's throw to first was in the dirt. Baum moved both runners with another bunt in which Hamilton was guilty of another defensive omission when it held the ball too long. Estrada then came home with the winning run when Healey grounded into a double play.

After his shaky start, Apse settled down and went the distance for PHS. "I was ready to yank him in the third when he walked two and had a couple of balls on the next guy," recalled Mansier, "but he just pitched out of it. He had that slow curve that was incredible and every once in a while he would come with a high fast ball that they would swing at."

"This was the best game of my life," said a happy Apse, who estimated that he was throwing 99 percent curve balls. "This win really made our season."

The loss, in turn, was a bitter one for the Hornets, who ended 17-8. After being ousted from State tournament competition, and after losses to McCorristin and Nottingham, Hamilton still had a chance to tie Nottingham for the Valley title if it could defeat Hopewell and PHS in two makeup, regular season games.

The Hornets kept their chances alive in dramatic fashion. After they allowed Hopewell to score five runs in the sixth inning to gain an 8-8 tie, in their game with the Bulldogs, they came back to score a run in the bottom of the ninth for a 9-8 victory.

Hamilton's decisive meeting with PHS, scheduled for last Wednesday, first had to be postponed when PHS students were on field trip to New York and again the next day when the Hamilton players were taking part in the Carpenter Cup game at Veterans' Stadium.

There was talk that maybe PHS should forfeit the game, but this was vetoed at a meeting of the league's athletic directors when PHS AD Carol Parsons presented the problem.

"They had three games in order to gain a tie and they lost all three. They lost to Nottingham, to McCorristin and to us," said Mansier. The win was Princeton's first over a Hamilton team in three years.

Ficarro's Is Upset, 5-3 By Mercer Spring Team

Bob Smyth, the manager of Steve Ficarro's Auto Body, could see it coming — a 5-3 upset last week by Mercer Spring in the Mercer Women's Softball League.

"The team was flat. I can't explain it. I suppose in a 27-game schedule that is going to happen sometimes," Smyth reasoned. "You could see it coming but there's nothing you can do about it."

After five previous consecutive wins, in which Ficarro's averaged 12 runs and 16 hits a game, Smyth got a whiff of trouble ahead in the team's previous game with Matt and Al's. In that game, Ficarro's fell behind, 6-0 and committed five errors before its bats came alive with a seven-run rally in the fourth en route to a 14-6 win.

"The defense eroded a little and the offense was sluggish at first," recalled Smyth. Both elements surfaced in the loss to Mercer Spring, he said.

The lone bright spot for Ficarro's in the loss was the 3-for-3 hitting of leadoff batter Cindy Lombardo who scored two of Ficarro's three runs. Mercer Spring's veteran pitcher Karen Dolan limited Ficarro's to eight scattered hits. The win was only the fourth for Mercer Spring in 14 games.

In the comeback win over Malt and Al's, Karen Sprague was the winning pitcher. Sprague was 2-for-3 at the plate and drove in two runs. Also connecting for two hits each were Grace Durland, Cee Aerstin, Anne Van Thuyne and Dee Discavage. Aerstin tripled and Discavage doubled for the victors.

Despite last week's loss, Smyth commented, "We're still not in bad shape in the standings." Ficarro's is tied for second with Grove Plumbing, one and a half games behind 3 Seasons.

Next up for Ficarro's is a game Thursday at 6:30 with the Misfits on Field No. 6 at Mercer Park.

Four from PHS Qualify For Meet of Champions

After the end of the NJSIAA all-group State championships held Saturday in South Plainfield, four athletes from Princeton High qualified for this Wednesday's Meet of Champions by placing fifth or higher in their event.

Three from the PHS girls team finished fourth in the Group 2 results in which Clearview was the runaway team champion with 41 points. PHS and three other teams finished with six.

Princeton's Kesti Ringland, Mercer County's two-time sprint champion, took a fourth with a clocking of 26.51 in the 200-meter dash. The event was won by Colonia's Twana Allen who was timed in 25.89. Jennifer Wolinetz ran a 62.04 to claim a fourth in the 400 and Ailey Penningroth was fourth in the 400 intermediate hurdles. Penningroth, a freshman, was clocked in 67.88, two seconds off the winning time of 65.79 posted by Bridget Dean of Clearview.

Wadsworth Named PHS Football Coach

Keith Wadsworth, a 1978 graduate of Princeton High School where he won letters in football, wrestling and lacrosse, has been named head coach of the PHS football team. Wadsworth succeeds Kurt Vollherbst who coached the Little Tigers the last four years.

For the past four years, Wadsworth, who helps his father, Ray Wadsworth, operate the Flower Market off Witherspoon Street, has served as assistant to Matt Wilkinson, the PHS wrestling coach. This will be his first shot as a head coach and the 31-year-old Princeton native readily admits he is looking forward to it. "There's a lot of work to be done but I am looking forward to a good year," he said.

At the top of his list of goals is to rebuild the PHS football program which has floundered the past two years. "A lot of people were afraid the program was going to die out," he said. "I want to bring back the old-fashioned blocking and fundamentals." For starters, Wadsworth revealed, he plans to use the Power I on offense and the 52 defense.

"I'll be looking for coaches. That's going to be the hardest thing. But I'm flexible. I'm open to any suggestion and opinion."

PHS suffered badly from a lack of players last fall. In several games, Vollherbst had to go with a squad that numbered fewer than 20, in posting a 1-6-2 record. But Wadsworth feels that numbers will not play a critical role this year. "Already, I've gotten a good response from those who want to sign up for physicals," he reported. "The kids are going to work hard." Wadsworth added that he intends to install a good weight-lifting program this summer.

"I watched every game last year. The kids really hit hard. They didn't get beat badly by anybody — with the exception of West Windsor. I think they should be proud of what they accomplished, considering the size of the squad."

Wadsworth was a 200-pound fullback and linebacker for the Little Tigers in the 1976 and '77 seasons under former coach Jim Beachell, earning all-county honors for both positions.

He was a four-year veteran in wrestling under coach Tom Murray and was an All-Mercer selection at 170 pounds in his junior and senior years. He held the school record for the most pins in a season (14) until it was eclipsed three years ago by Peer Soderberg.

In lacrosse, Wadsworth was a three-year player for former coach Bill Cirullo, winning All-American honorable mention his junior year.

After graduating from Princeton High, Wadsworth attended the University of Miami for a year before transferring to the University of South Carolina, where he was a 230-pound linebacker on the football team until an injury forced him to retire.

Vollherbst, whose best year with Princeton High was his first when he led the Little Tigers to the Valley Division championship in the Colonial Valley Conference and a berth in the NJSIAA State playoffs, will remain in coaching. He will serve as an assistant this fall on the Trenton State College football staff where he will coach the linebackers.

"I'm very happy to be able to be there," said Vollherbst this week. "I had a couple of nice options — all of them coming at the same time — so I was able to weigh each one. I've coached at the college level before and I believe I work well with that level of play. Trenton State has a solid program so everything has turned out real positive."

ed being shut out entirely when Vance Liverman finished fifth in the long jump with a leap of 20-10½. That was exactly two feet behind the winning effort of 22-10½ by Benny Liles of Kingsway.

Cinnaminson edged out Chatham, 22-20, to claim the team title. More than 35 schools

Stabbing

allegedly entered the victim's home through an unlocked, first-floor front window, entered the bathroom and stabbed her twice in the left arm and right cage and then fled. A roommate of the victim was not at home at the time of the attack.

The victim, Anne Woods, in her 20s, dialed 911 and was connected with Township police at 10:47 Thursday evening.

She described her assailant as a black male wearing a ski mask, a red shirt and black pants. Ms. Woods was taken to Princeton Medical Center, treated for her wounds and released the following night.

Because it was a seemingly random stabbing attack, there was immediate speculation that the suspect might be connected with the stabbing death last April of Emily "Cissy" Stuart, who died from multiple stab wounds. Mrs. Stuart was found last April 4 in the basement of her home at 34 Mercer Street and is believed to have been murdered two days earlier. That slaying, the first in the Borough in 11 years, remains unsolved.

Neither Prosecutor Koenig nor his assistant, Edward C. Bertuccio Jr., who is heading the County investigation into the Stuart murder, would comment when asked if Greffrard is being viewed as a suspect in the case.

Neither would Township Lt. Mario Musso, who declined to say if Township police have questioned Greffrard. Nor would Borough Captain Thomas Michaud. "We are not commenting on all the speculation that he may be involved," said Capt. Michaud.

Members of the Stuart family have also refused to comment.

Greffrard was apprehended less than a half-hour after he allegedly fled the victim's home on Oakland Street, a one-block roadway off Walnut Lane that borders John Witherspoon School.

Lt. Musso declined to confirm or deny the presence of a Township patrol car in the area, but residents report that one was parked two houses away. Police had apparently been staking out the area after receiving reports of a masked prowler and Peeping Tom seen in the neighborhood in recent weeks. The alleged prowler wore a ski mask and was seen looking into the windows of homes.

Sgt. Peter Savalli and Patrolmen Robert Toole, Sean Reed and Gary Conover, aided by K-9 dogs sent from the South Brunswick Police Department, searched the area. Greffrard was apprehended about a quarter-mile away inside his home on Witherspoon Lane by Borough Ptl. Gary Mitchell. Approaching from bordering Princeton Cemetery, Greffrard had trouble entering his house because the doors were locked. Once inside, he ran to his bedroom and jumped beneath the bedcovers.

As soon as Borough police heard the broadcast of the stabbing and the description of the suspect, they allegedly acted on a hunch and went to the Witherspoon Lane area.

Greffrard was taken into custody by Township police shortly after 11 Thursday evening and held in a Township cell for almost 40 hours until he was released to County authorities at 3 Saturday afternoon.

Greffrard was employed in the Krauszer's convenience store on State Road and had lived here from his native Haiti in 1984.

While a senior at Princeton High School, Greffrard was involved in an incident in which he allegedly chased another student with a knife. The previous day, he had been involved in a fight on Nassau Street with the student over a girl. The student had allegedly punched Greffrard in an unprovoked attack and broken his nose.

Commencement

"With clarity, wit and wonder," continues the citation, "she corrects the distortion of our short-sightedness, teaching us to see beyond this coast, these seas, this planet to who we really are and what we might become."

Dorothy I. Height, President of the National Council of Negro Women, Inc., received an honorary Doctor of Laws for her work in civil rights. She was cited for "her unrelenting determination to destroy all vestiges of the color bar, the subjugation of women and girls, and the powerlessness of the poor" and for "her steadfast faith in the possibility of positive change."

An honorary Doctor of Science was awarded to F. Sherwood Rowland, Donald Bren Professor of Chemistry, University of California, Irvine. "With a chemist's sense of balance, he asked how nature was subtracting the chlorofluorocarbon gases we were adding to the atmosphere and found the equation in the ozone layer," reads his citation.

"With a citizen's sense of responsibility," it continues, "he has fought to halt today tomorrow's environmental blight."

In keeping with long tradition, the two principal commencement speeches, the valedictory and Latin salutatory addresses, were delivered by members of the graduating class. The valedictorian, Loren David Walensky, a chemistry major who also earned a certificate from the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs, is from Milburn. The salutatorian is Jorge Bravo, a classics major from New Orleans.

There were 683 men and 392 women in the graduating senior class — a total of 1,075 recipients of bachelor's degrees. The undergraduate degrees included 934 bachelors of arts and 141 bachelors of science in engineering.

Of those seniors awarded degrees, 486 — or 44.9 percent — received some form of honors: 91 highest honors, 148 high honors, and 247 honors. Almost 47 percent of the women received honors and 44.2 percent of men.

A number of area residents were included in the graduating class. From Princeton: Sarah L. Billington, BSE, with High Honors, Carolyn M. Ende, AB, Peter J. Espenshade, AB, with Highest Honors, elected to Phi Beta Kappa, Scott W. Fulmer, AB, with High Honors, Margery L. Henneman, AB, Christian J. Howe, AB, Megan A. Lonski, AB, Henry E. Wang, BSE, with Honors, and Mayne L. Yu, BSE.

From Princeton Junction: Andrew S. Pierson, AB, with Honors. From Skillman: Robert H. Myslik, AB, and from Belle Mead: Linda Wickenden, AB.

The 571 advanced degrees included 240 doctors of philosophy, 220 masters of arts, 53 masters in public affairs, 16 masters of architecture, 30 masters of science in engineering and 12 masters of fine arts.

Princeton University President Harold T. Shapiro delivered brief remarks at the conclusion of the commencement ceremonies.
